CEO Message

Communications and technology have developed so rapidly that the concept of a global village, now for the first time ever, actually seems a living reality. This reality has changed a lot many things around us. Greater access to information, varied cultures, lives of different communities across the globe and changing lifestyles across civilizations has given way to a whole new concept of the way people would like to live. The way people would like their surroundings and the environment to spend their days and nights is changing. So are their demands from manufacturers and designers of products and services, especially the ones got to do with their home and living!

This comes as an interesting challenge for us with a track record of meeting the highest of customer expectations over the last four decades or so. Like always, we are here to meet the challenge, take it head on and giving out products full of inner virtues and outer beauty. The collection you are about to witness in this catalogue is a result of our commitment to excellence. It is an outcome of our constant focus on consumer preferences and our resolve to meet them.

All our endeavors revolve around you –the customer. Our teams at all levels have worked hard, day in and day out, to present you with not only what you want but also exceed your expectations and inspire you to touch new heights of aesthetics and imagination. It's not just our commitment and constant endeavors but your continuous support and appreciation that has helped us grow to the No. 1 company in our category around the world.

I would love to hear from you both in terms of criticism and appreciation. That would be a great help in further developing our ranges in a way that synchronizes well with your life and your lifestyle!

Happy living!
